

The Crying Camel

The Prophet was walking on a hot day and heard a poor camel crying. It was tied to a tree.

The camel's owner was resting nearby.

The Prophet told the man that the camel was part of Allah's world so it is our duty to care for all animals.

The Prophet and the Ants

After collecting food, the ants were on the way back to the nest.

Some people built a fire close to the nest that was blowing smoke into the nest.

The people heard a voice telling them they had built their fire too close and would burn the ants.

The Prophet told them that no matter how small or big all animals are important and should be looked after.

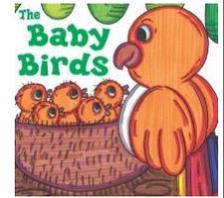

The Baby Birds

The Prophet and his friends were having some rest under a tree. They were admiring all of the animals.

They saw some birds trying to fly. One of the birds was falling and one of the men caught it.

The mother bird swooped down because the little bird was really scared in the man's hand.

The man let the bird go and the Prophet reminded all his friends that we should all be careful not to harm any living thing.

Creation

Muslim people believe in one God and call him Allah.

How do Muslim charities care for the world?

Green Muslims is a charity in America.

Green Muslims tries to teach Muslim people that they need to look after the environment.

Muslim hands focuses on life on the land, life under water and everyone working well together.

An English charity that works across the whole world.

They believe that Allah created the world.

Muslims have many names for Allah. Two of them are Al-Khaliq the creator, Al-Musawwir the shaper.

It started during Ramadan in 2007 when some Muslims had 'zero rubbish meals'.

It helps people with lots of things in their life and helps to grow their own food.
